ADMINISTRATION

Principals' Message

School is over now and you are going out to make your own way in a world of opportunity. You should be prepared to make good use of the opportunities which are yours. However, in looking for opportunities, avoid opportunism, which is taking advantage of others in order to advance one's self. Opportunism is not in keeping with Christian principles for success.

What opportunities will you have as you leave school?

One of the opportunities you will have all through life is the privilege to make friends. Someone has said that a man is known by the company which he keeps. With the opportunity of forming friendships comes also the responsibility to influence one's friends for the right.

You will have many opportunities to discipline yourself. In the home and in school others have corrected you and directed your activities to a large extent. If you would succeed in life, you will need to assume the responsibility of your own discipline and direction of your activities.

There may be factors, such as abilities, aptitudes, finances or other circumstances which may decide to some extent what your vocation will be, and yet it is your opportunity to evaluate these factors and decide on a vocation. It is important that what you choose is something in which you will be happy, and in which you can supply some needed goods or service for humanity.

Opportunities for Christian service and witnessing will not be lacking. The opportunity of Bible reading and prayer is yours, and in this you want to be faithful, lest opportunities for evil overtake you. The world needs a helping hand and the witness of a true Christian. This is your opportunity. God bless you, Seniors.

Very sincerely,
Edwin L. Keener

Social Committee

September came--and everybody said, "Let's have lots of parties." Then came days of planning--last minute trips to town--looking for bargains --oh dear--tomorrow's the social--guess we'd better get on the ball--hurry--whew!--glad that's over!--All school banquet comes next--any ideas?--Yeh! "Winter Wonderland"-- O.K!--let's have an igloo!--no time to make one--Oh well--we'll have lots of snow all over!--work like crazy all day--it's done!--now we can relax!! Time for another dress-up supper already? Only one more to plan--social committee's running out of ideas--it was lots of fun though!!

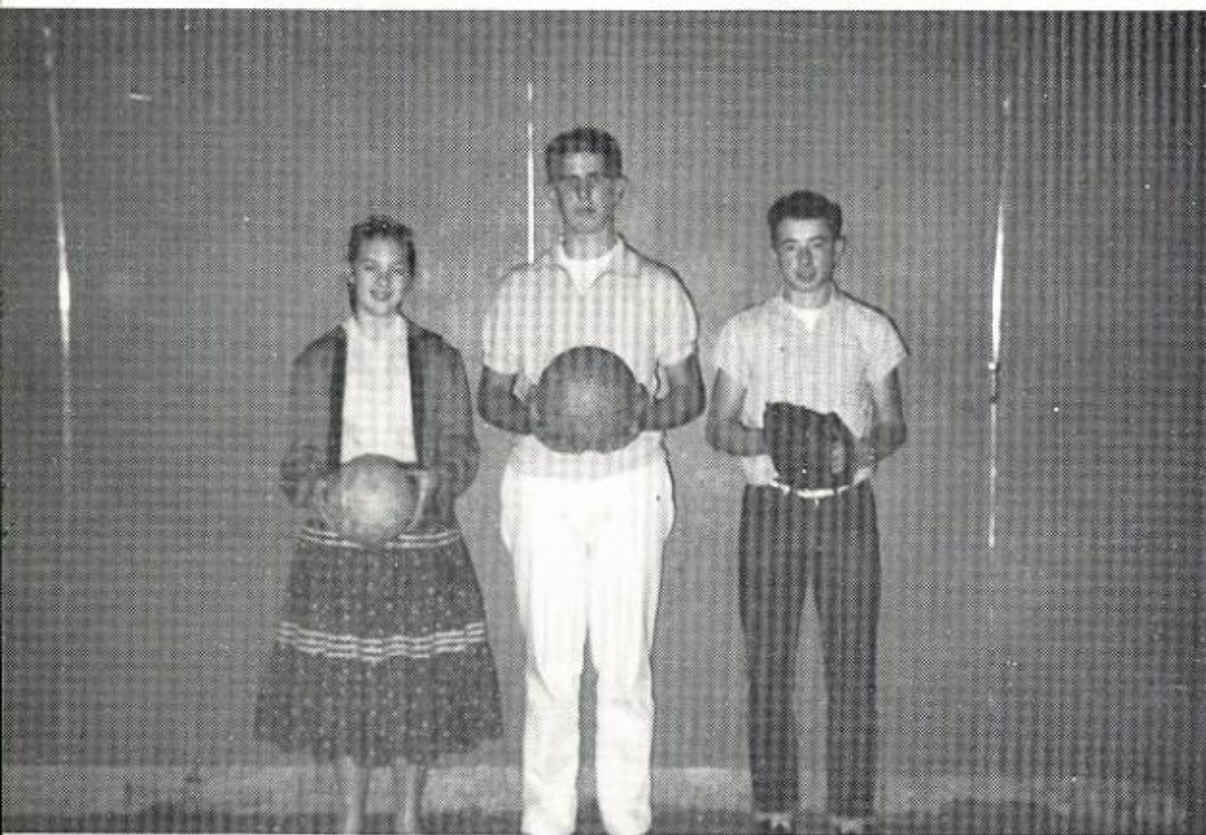

Clara Lehman; Dorothy Gingerich, Chairman; and Mervin Stutzman.

Compliments of Athletic Committee

Ruth Ropp; Galen Burkey; and Truman Miller, Chairman.

Ping-pong tournaments, basketball games, purchasing new equipment, class and literary volleyball tournaments, horse-shoe, badminton, softball games, the track meet... all sponsored by the athletic committee and all a means of making life on the campus more enjoyable.

Religious Welfare Committee

Lela Fern Kropf; Ervin Kauffman, Chairman; and Maxine Landis.

The spiritual well-being of the campus is important and religious activities need to be planned--thus the Religious Welfare Committee and a great responsibility. The varied activities and program have been helpful and interesting. They have provided Christian fellowship for those who have shown their interest by their presence and participation in the activities.

Extension Committee

The Extension Committee was responsible for sending groups off-campus to witness; by singing and by spoken word.

Each week we sent a group into Salem to pass out tracts. Every other week we sent singing groups to the Rest Haven Home and the Cottage Convalescent Home in Salem. Several times this year we sent singing groups to the Rescue Mission in Portland.

We trust that many souls were blessed and were drawn to a closer walk with God as a result of our efforts.

Marlene Nice; Mary Ellen Bucher, Chairman; and Carl Snyder.

Chapel Program Committee

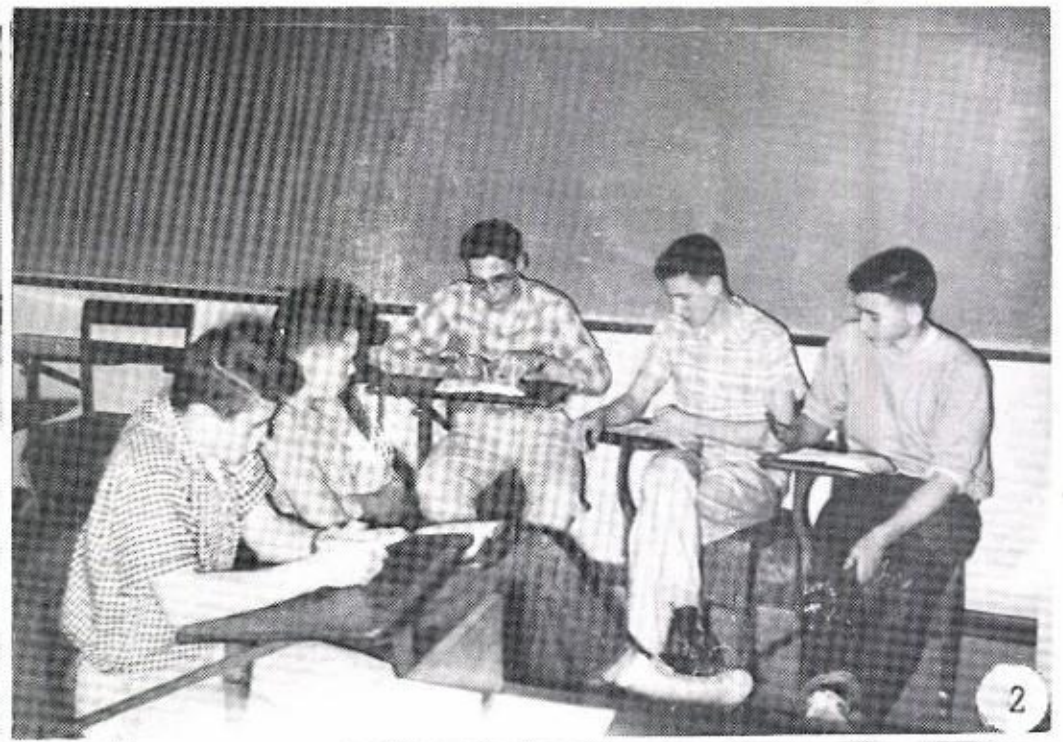

Every Friday the students had charge of chapel. Usually their program included several talks on subjects which are vital to the lives of young Christians, and special music. These were planned and presented by the students themselves.

A lot of work goes into the preparing of the Friday morning chapel programs—at least you would come to that conclusion if you could have peeked in on one of the meetings of the chapel committee. There would have been books strewn all over the table. You'd have seen Dave tearing his hair, Judy wearing a frown of concentration (?) and Liz writing everything but programs on her paper. Don't worry, that's just their way of making genius burn.

Elizabeth Gingerich; David Stutzman, Chairman; and Judy Kropf.

Nature Club

We thank Thee, Father, for the beauty of the earth, and of the heavens overhead. What can surpass in loveliness the tiny snowflake which thou hast so intricately designed or sunset which is ever new and each more beautiful than the last? For this privilege that we, the nature club, have had of looking into the wonders of thy great creation we thank Thee.

Hi-Landers Club

Through the Hi-landers Club, Twila leads her Freshman and Sophomore girls closer to their Creator. This year they hiked almost every two weeks---rain or shine. They learned how to build fires and cook out and how to really appreciate the out of doors. Hi-lite of their club activities was a trip to Mt. Hood in February.

Sportsman Club

The disappointments of duck-hunting, competitive target practice, Jim Bond's wild life picture, the strenuous hours of basketball, the thrill of chasing a coon, all these will be held as fond memories of Sportsmen's Club. Thanks, Bro. Showalter, for the fun we've had in Sportsmen's Club.

Science Club

Current scientific happenings played a big role in making Paul Yoder's Science Club especially active this year. Talk of sputniks and rockets created an interest in making and launching a rocket. The boys also saw scientific films, made crystals, and constructed a geniac or human brain. In April the club attended the state fair in Corvallis.

Writers Club

Hurry or we'll be late, out into the stormy night we slip. One ill-fated member slips on the muddy path. Each girl clutches in her hand a carefully guarded sheaf of papers. Through the darkness a cheery light shines, soon there is an answer to our knock and once more we are in the abode of one of our church's finest writers. Each member reads the manuscripts which she has written. Perhaps it is poetry or a bit of prose. Next we'll listen to the words of some of the world's established literary figures, which brings very vividly to our minds the ambition of every writer to some day produce a work worthy of publication.

Aremac Club

Sure, I'll help you develop your pictures. Let's go to the dark room. You get the film ready while I mix the chemicals. Okay, turn off the lights and we'll run it right through this solution. There, that did it. Just let them sit for a few minutes and they'll be all ready. Now turn on the light and let's look at our finished product. Oops! What happened? I guess the camera wasn't any good! Oh, well, we had fun this year in Aramac Club, didn't we?

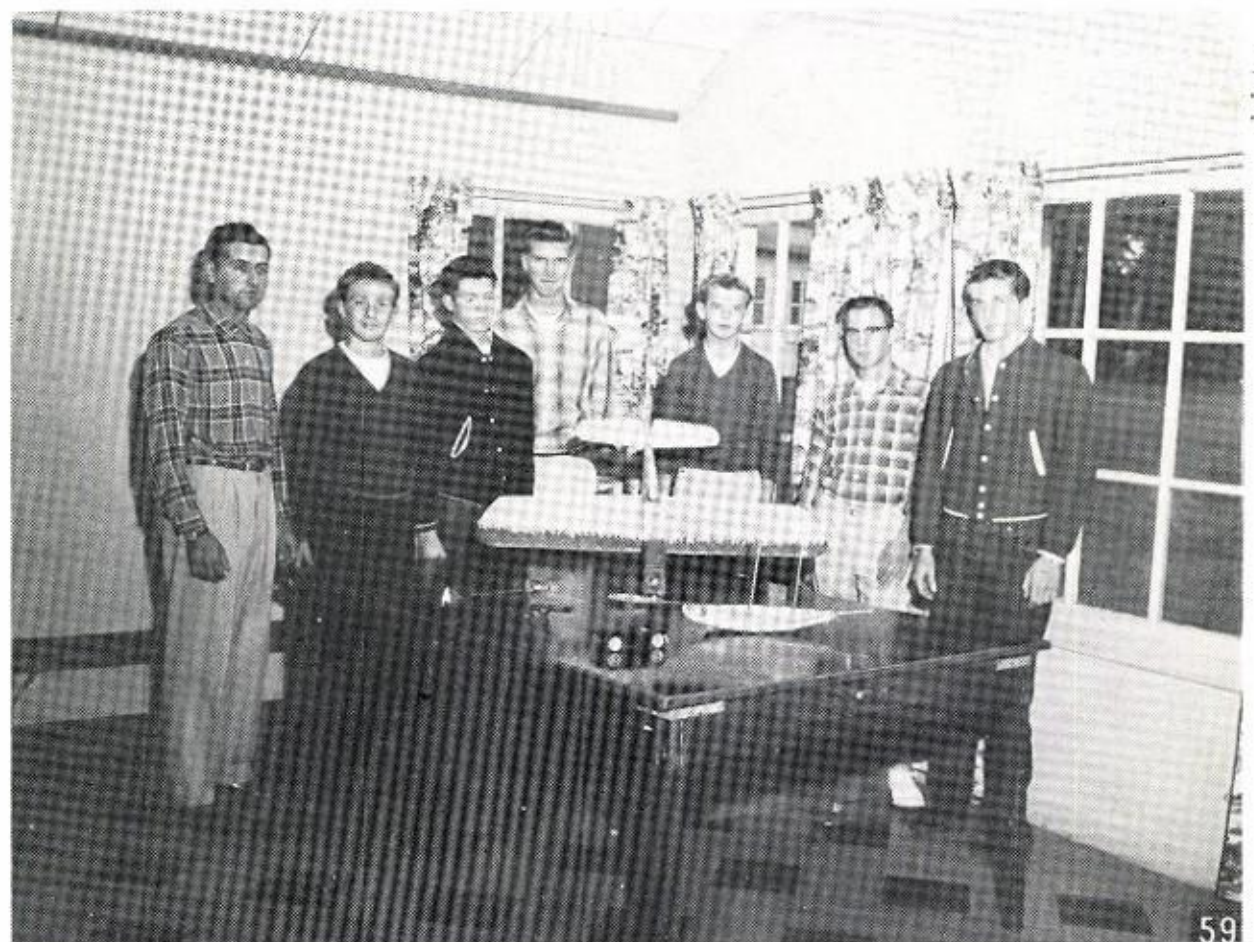

Astronomy Club

The Astronomy Club, the newest club on our campus, consisted of five members under the expert sponsorship of Timothy Strubhar. The most important project that the club undertook, with the help of Brother Strubhar, and several of the fellows, was making a telescope. The aim of the members was to learn more about the heavens and to learn to appreciate the wonders of God's creation.

Model Club

Is it a bird? Is it sputnik? No, it's just one of the model airplanes made in model club. Besides making airplanes the members of this club make boats, cars, trains, busses, and other models which develop skill and craftsmanship of the hands. It is amazing how skillful these boys have become in the intricate, artistic hobby of building models.

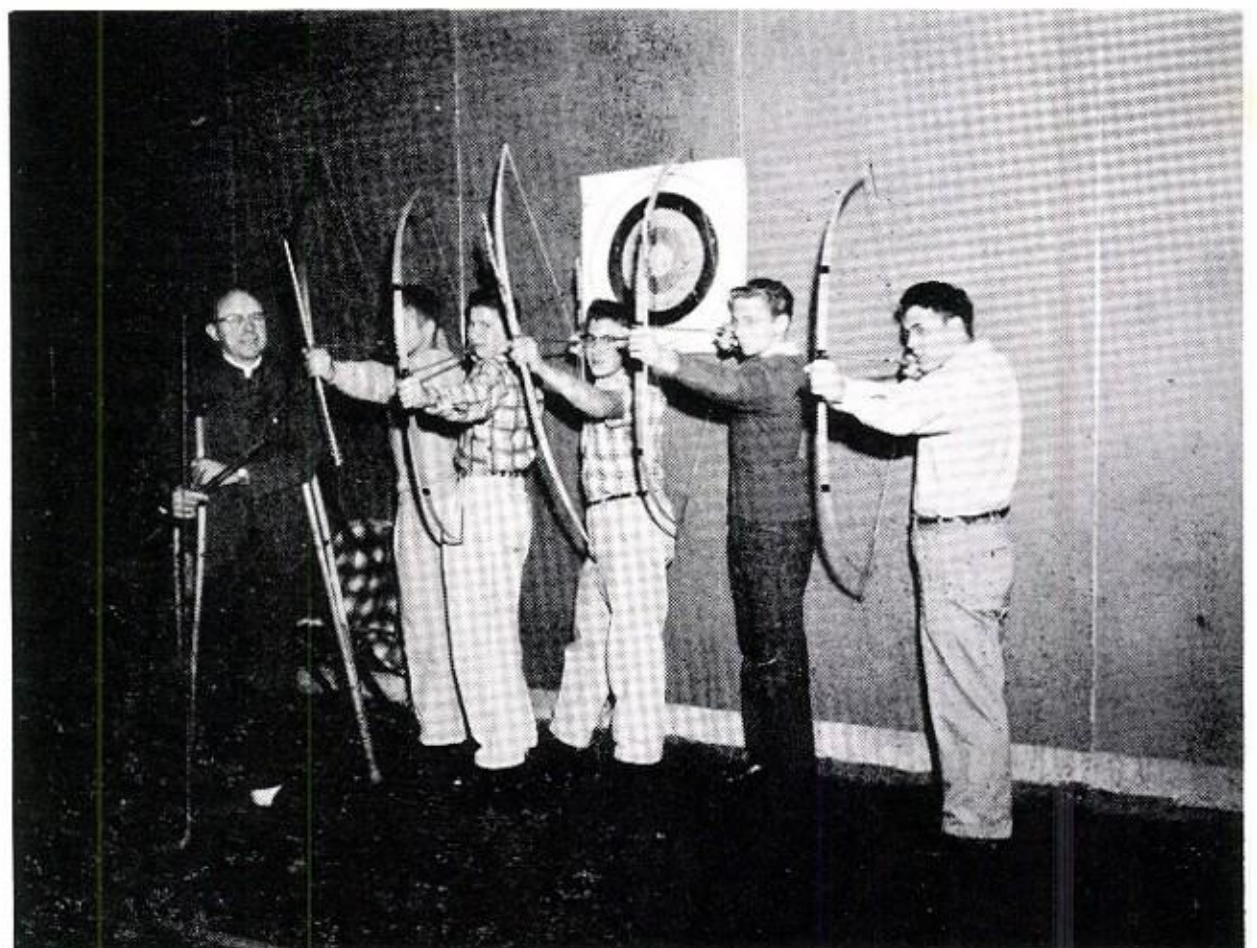

Crafts Club

Twelve girls met in the reception room for fellowship as they worked with their hands on pretty and practical projects these girls with Emily Lantz made up the Crafts Club. Remember the needlepoint--the friendly chatter--Ivan's leather tooling--making Christmas cards --rag dolls.

Archery Club

Five energetic boys with Brother Lind as sponsor, tested their ability in hitting the "bull's eye" each club night in the gym. Long range shooting outside was attempted also. The poor old target is nearly shattered from being pierced so often by the arrows of the boys from the Archery Club.

"Solutions A and B are mixed and distilled and..."

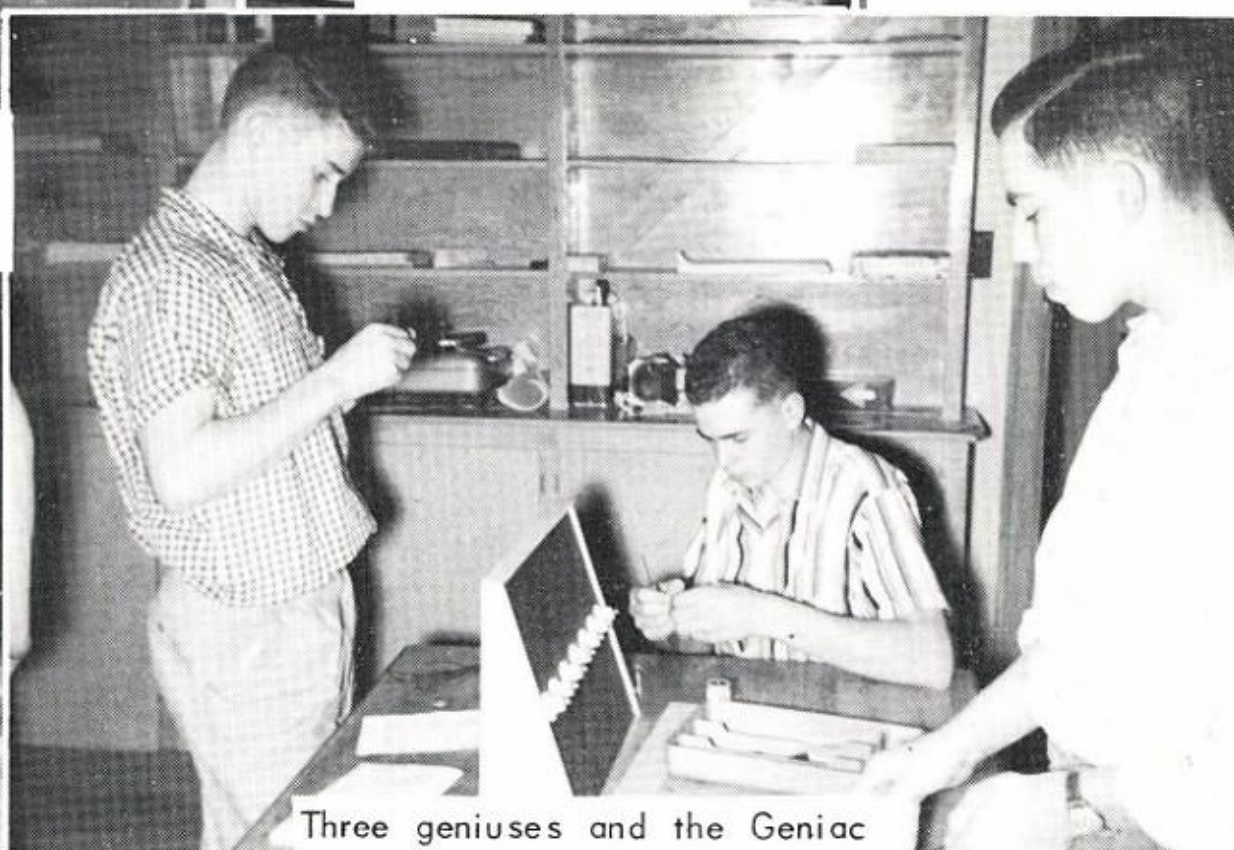

At work, for once.

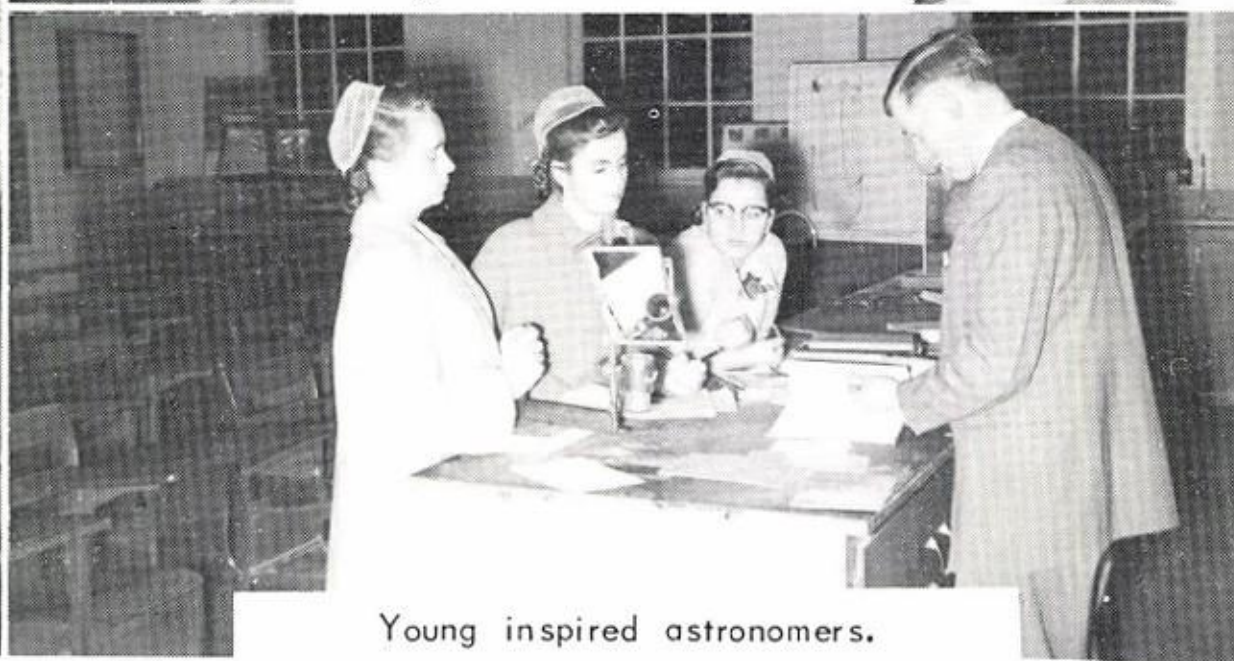

"Beaver, on the other hand..."

And in a day or two it'll be ready to fly.

Three geniuses and the Geniac

Young inspired astronomers.
